

THE PARISHES OF BRANDESTON AND KETTLEBURGH

Dear Friends

It was great news to hear that Easton and Brandeston are, respectively, winner and runner up in Suffolk Coastal's 2009 Village of the Year award.

This recognition deserves to be celebrated, for it really is an achievement. The award has little to do with the "best kept village". The criteria on which the judging panel base their decision takes only passing account of the appearance of people's gardens or the lack of litter. What makes a village isn't just its houses or its street, or even local bus services or dustbin emptying! It is people who make it what it is.

In submitting a village for consideration, its Parish Council offers a description of what life is like for the people living in their village, young and old, families and those who live alone. I am often told, "our village is a good place to live", and this year's award is recognition of just that. Neighbourliness doesn't just happen, and it is good that it should be recognised.

In October, we will celebrate Harvest Thanksgiving in our churches in accordance with the best rural tradition. And I hope this year that we can broaden our thankfulness to embrace not just the harvest from which we all benefit but also the quality of the life that we share in our communities; the giving and receiving and all the shared interests and activities that go on among neighbours, and the care and concern, felt and shown, for the welfare of individuals and groups of people.

I also hope that, during our Harvest Thanksgiving, we will not just be thinking about our own lives and communities, but that we can find ways looking outwards and acknowledging our place in the wider world. After all, in today's world our neighbours aren't just the people next door. Here in the Deben Valley, we can take so much for granted; as we express thankfulness for our lives it is right to remember those for whom life is harder. There are places in the world where people struggle, and it is of them that we should think as we celebrate our own thanks-giving.

St Francis of Assisi, who rejoiced in his own poverty and constantly praised God for every aspect of creation, reminds us that "It is in giving that we receive." Through such thankfulness, praise and concern for others we shall remind ourselves that this world is a good place in which to be alive.

With best wishes

KETTLEBURGH HARVEST FESTIVAL

Our service of thanksgiving will take place at St Andrew's Church on Sunday 11th October at 5.30pm and any flowers or produce for decorating the church should be taken on the Friday or Saturday. Please come to the service to thank God for the fruits of the earth and bring your gifts of packaged food, which is greatly appreciated by the Ormiston Trust Family Centre in Ipswich, and fresh produce which will be taken to Mills Meadow in Framlingham.

Following the service, at approximately 6.45pm we shall gather in the village hall for our traditional harvest supper. No ticket needed but do bring your own wine and we shall be grateful for donations towards the cost of the meal.

Everyone is welcome at either or both of these events so do book the date now.

KETTLEBURGH HARVEST HOP

Tickets are going fast for the Village Hall Harvest Hop on Saturday 17th October. The fun starts at 7.30 pm, with live music from the famous local duo John Ward and Mario Price, an equally famous supper, a bar, a draw and a positively amazing post supper dramatic interlude - The Kettlesomer Murders! See if you can solve the dastardly crimes before Inspector Tom Bumbleby and Sergeant Gloy put their mighty sleuthing skills to the task. Tempted? Get your tickets by phoning 01728 723623. They cost £8.50 and are worth every penny. Any profits will go to the Village Hall.

MARDLE – Monday 19th

John Sculpher of Wickham Market will talk about the exciting opportunities there are for travelling across Europe by rail. Eurostar already links access to France, Belgium and Germany, but will soon be extending to Eastern and Southern Europe. In these days of panic about global warming, this preferred mode of travel should be of great interest. Venue as usual, Easton and Letheringham Village Hall, start 7.30pm. Admission £6 including drinks and canapés. Everyone welcome, proceeds to Church Restoration Fund.

KETTLEBURGH TOWN ESTATE CHARITY

This parish charity is, at the discretion of the trustees, able to make small grants to first year students in higher education who live in Kettleburgh. Any resident who will be starting a course at college or university this autumn should make application in writing before 31st October to the secretary, Valerie Upson, Fieldings, Kettleburgh.

BRANDESTON RECIPE BOOK

A group of Brandeston residents are putting together a recipe book to raise money for the church. We would like the book to be ready to sell at the Christmas Fair. We hope that people will contribute their “family favourites” as often the best recipes are those that have been handed down. If you have a recipe that you are happy to share please could you send it (handwritten or typed) to:

Ann Hoole – 3, Pond Piece
Clemency Cunliffe – The Broadhurst, The Street
Helen Fletcher – 53 The Street, or e-mail helen.fletcher@btinternet.com.

TIMES PAST

Recently there have been enquiries in Kettleburgh about the Ling family. The story begins when the Framlingham Weekly News of July 26th 1884 reported that the estate of the late Mr Jackson had been sold to Mr A Ling for £440.0.0. It consisted of a double dwelling house, small shop, warehouse etc. with 3 acres, 2 rods and 22 perches of arable and pasture land with a messuage in 2 tenements.

Subsequently Alfred Ling and his wife settled into today's Corner House with their son and three daughters. Mr Ling was a pork butcher and his shop also sold general commodities, served by the womenfolk of the family. The Lings were staunch non-conformists and Sundays would see them, often in single file, walking to the Congregational Church, now Chapel House at the top of Brandeston Street, where they would worship.

In 1910 the Ling's eldest daughter, Martha married John Bedwell, the carpenter son of Brandeston's builder. The Bedwell family lived at what is now Carpenters and 31, The Street. Then it was a house in three tenements where the newly weds occupied the central section.

By the time the war came in 1914 John and Martha had moved to West View, the end part of Corner House, Kettleburgh. John was an older man of 41 and afflicted by ill health, died of bronchitis in France in 1917.

In 1923 Alfred Ling, then 88 years of age collapsed and died; he had not seen a doctor for 45 years. Robert Ling and his two unmarried sisters continued to run the shop. Robert had a business delivering coal using a horse and cart. It is remembered in the village that Gertie and Rosa used twists of paper to form small bags when sweets were bought by the children. After Robert died in 1942, having been Congregational Church Secretary for over 30 years, the two spinster sisters moved into Arthur's Cottage.

It is recalled that they hardly ever left the village and dressed in a Victorian manner, wearing long blue dresses with white aprons edged with broderie anglaise and mob caps. Normally they were sweet old ladies but they did not get on well together and were in a constant state of either open warfare or armed truce. They shared a double bed but this had a curtain hung down the centre.

Their cottage has a long front garden with a path that ran up the middle. Each sister cultivated half the garden, one grew fruit, the other vegetables. They used to sell the fruit and vegetables to each other! If one thought that the other was over charging she would escalate the state of war and they would battle it out up and down the front path, using line props in the manner of civil war pikemen.

Rosa was known throughout the village as Nosy Rosy as every time something happened her curtains would twitch. Mains water was eventually installed in the parish but Rosy refused to drink it as "it didn't have the same flavour" as from the pump. The sisters were somewhat frugal and it is remembered that one sister remarked that she had cooked half a boiled egg for her sister.

The 1960's saw the death of the three women, Gertie, Martha and Rosa. However the family name still lives on in Kettleburgh as Ling's Field, four houses, built in 1968, celebrate their residence in the village.
