BRANDESTON AND KETTLEBURGH PARISH NEWS NOVEMBER 2016

PARISHES OF BRANDESTON AND KETTLEBURGH

Dear Friends

We often talk in Church about the 'good news 'of the gospel (though maybe not as often as we ought!), the good news of the life and works of Jesus, and his death on the cross for our redemption. Being a follower of Christ, a Christian, places demands upon us, some we enjoy; our friends within the family of the Church; and the many and varied aspects of church life, but others maybe less so, the constant fund raising struggle and the annual balancing of the books – or not!.

So what does it mean in practice 'to take up your cross', or to 'lose your lives for Christ's sake'. Well above all it means giving - willingly and joyfully "giving our time, our skills our treasure" where and when it is needed. And there are many, many people across all our seven parishes already doing this, but more help is needed, even from those who may not want to come to the services on offer, more love, support and generosity is needed.

So, in this my penultimate letter of 2016 (yes really!) can I ask you to think about that however much you give, whether money, or your time or in skills, as they can never compare to the enormous generosity of the God who created us, and who in Christ laid down his life for us.

Will you use the waiting time of Advent to consider if there is anything you can do for your Church, or if there is something more that you can do, by asking yourself if what you are already giving or doing adequately reflects the love that God has for humanity and for you. Any new offer of help,or an increase in an existing financial donation no matter how small or seemingly insignificant will be an enormous encouragement to your parish Church and the small number of people that are striving to do their best to keep it open, as a loving, worshipping presence in your community, available to all.

With love in Christ

KETTLEBURGH PANTO

The Kettleburgh Players are delighted to announce that rehearsals for their next production are already under way.

This year the pantomime is going to be 'Beauty and the Beast', so you can expect lots of growling, a spoilt prince charming and his faithful side-kick, some naughty fairies, a pair of idiotic clerks, the kindly squire and his lovely daughters and the occasional guest appearance from some well-known characters.

It promises to be lots of fun with plenty of audience participation so make sure you put the date in your dairy.

Performances 9th – 11th February, Kettleburgh Village Hall.

SUFFOLK HISTORIC CHURCHES TUST BIKE RIDE & STRIDE, Saturday 10th September

No set route, no set starting point, and no set time; just a long list of Suffolk churches that would be open as destinations. What a perfect opportunity to set my own agenda, explore the more remote corners of the countryside, visit as many (or as few) churches as I liked, and eat biscuits. No guilt feelings about my long-suffering husband trailing round after me while I savoured that lovely musty odour of old church, admired the old architecture, and wondered about the people behind the inscriptions on the ancient tombs. The weather forecast was for rain, breaking the long period of hot, dry weather. The cooler temperature was welcome, but the prospect of getting wet on a bike wasn't so great. The morning was dry, though, and I set off in good weather and high hopes. In the case of some of the most interesting churches, the associated village had shrunk away from its spiritual centre, leaving the church in the middle of nowhere. The most effective access to such churches was sometimes by footpath rather than road, and on more than one occasion I was sent on my way across fields and, at one point, through a copse. (Unfortunately, this led to my getting a thorn in my front tyre, and so the second half of the ride was punctuated by increasingly frequent reinflation stops.) At each of the churches, there was a warm welcome from the volunteers who had given up some of their weekend to check people in, offer refreshments (in addition to the aforementioned biscuits, there were some lovely fresh apricots at Bedfield, and yummy cream teas at Framsden Baptist church) and generally to chat and offer information about their church and the surrounding area. In several churches, the volunteers were using the opportunity to have a tidy up, or to prepare for their harvest festival. Some had taken along their dogs, which competed with their owners to give the warmest welcome. Having such a long list of churches to choose from meant that for the first half of my ride, I caught only infrequent glimpses of fellow church riders or striders. It wasn't until the afternoon, when I reached Monewden, that they suddenly seemed to emerge. In all, I visited 16 churches and cycled about 33 miles. I discovered some lovely parts of the county, and confirmed that Suffolk has plenty of hills. And the forecast was right: it did rain, but only for about five minutes. I'm already looking forward to next year, when I will explore another small corner of this beautiful county.

Just a little more about the Bike Ride. It was a lovely day after a dismal forecast. Charles Freeman, Chris and Caroline Oswald and John Garratt cycled for Brandeston, starting at All Saint's. They all met Persephone and Rob Booth at Kettleburgh. Susannah Roberts sat at the Church and then cycled to 9 churches – well done everyone. There will be more about the bike ride in the December magazine – money collected etc.

HARVEST FESTIVAL

One of the loveliest festivals for decorating the church is harvest festival. It was good to see the cubs in church and of course our friends from Wickham Market. Rather than heading to winter October is hanging on to summer and our church looked lovely with floral decorations, fruits and berries . . . for which we thank the flower ladies. The service of four hymns included a short 'play' on the theme of 'The House that Jack Built' indicating the connection between the people who grow and produce our food but the unfair way in which it is distributed world wide.

The service was followed as usual by supper in the village hall and we thank everyone who contributed to the salads and delicious apple crumbles.

KETTLEBURGH PARISH COUNCIL HAVE SECURED AN AED

After several months of discussions and research we are pleased to confirm that Kettleburgh Parish Council have secured funding for an Automated External Defibrillator (AED).

The Council received confirmation in early August that Robin Vickery, our local County Councillor, had awarded us full funding for the purchase of the AED and cabinet through his Locality Budget. Our thanks go to him and Suffolk County Council for all of their assistance. The AED has been installed by the entrance doors of Kettleburgh Village Hall and can be accessed via a code obtained when contacting 999.

What is an AED?

An Automated External Defibrillator (AED) is a very safe and easy to use portable electronic device, designed to be used by a layperson. It automatically reads the heart rhythm of someone who may have suffered a cardiac arrest and identifies whether an electrical shock is required to restore a normal heart rhythm. If it is required, an AED will safely deliver a controlled electrical shock to the heart. Simple to Use:

AEDs are simple and safe. The machine gives clear spoken instructions. The units are portable and can be taken to the person in need. Once in position, the defibrillator detects the heart's rhythm. It won't deliver a shock unless one is needed. They are designed to be stored for long periods without use and require very little routine maintenance. We encourage anyone that wishes to find out more to come along to our next Parish Council Meeting on 10th November or alternatively, please contact any member of the council, who will be able to direct you to further information.

ST ELIZABETH HOSPICE

Go wacky in wool for the hospice this Christmas

St Elizabeth Hospice is urging friends, colleagues and classmates to go wacky in wool this December, as part of their Woolly Pully Week.

Following from last year's success, the local charity is holding this years' event on the week between 12 - 16 December, and is appealing for local businesses, schools and groups to don their craziest knit and do their bit for their local hospice.

Organisations choose a day during the Woolly Pully Week and on their nominated day, everyone has to wear their silliest sweater and donate £2 to St Elizabeth Hospice. Felicity Rook, St Elizabeth Hospice's head of fundraising, said: "Christmas jumpers have become such a popular phenomenon in recent years, nearly everybody has a festive top, and Woolly Pully Week is a great excuse to get yours out and wear it to work, school or wherever.

"Holding a jumper day is sure to get you in the festive spirit in the run up to Christmas and is an easy and fun way to raise vital funds for your local hospice and help ensure nobody has to face their illness alone this Christmas."

Midnight Walk 2017

St Elizabeth Hospice is asking supporters to save the date for their biggest fundraising event of the year.

The hugely popular Midnight Walk will be taking place on Saturday 20 May 2017 on the streets of Ipswich, with all new routes.

Catherine Sheppard, events and challenges fundraiser at St Elizabeth Hospice said: "We are very excited to launch next year's Midnight Walk. It's the biggest event on the hospice calendar, and we have made a few alterations including new routes and a new venue for 2017, and I'm sure that people are going to be thrilled with the changes."

Full details about the Midnight Walk 2017 will be released in early November, and those who register before 31 January 2017 will save £5 with the early bird offer.

Keep up to date with St Elizabeth Hospice news and the Midnight Walk at www.stelizabethhospice.org.uk

Take a Dip with a Difference

Are you brave enough to take a dip in the cold North Sea on Christmas morning for your local hospice?

Join hundreds of other supporters as they take a dip in the icy water on Christmas morning to raise vital funds for St Elizabeth Hospice.

Catherine Sheppard, St Elizabeth Hospice's events and challenges fundraiser, said: "The Christmas Day Dip is in its 13th year and it's still such a popular event, with around 400 people lining the beach each Christmas morning ready to take the icy plunge!

"There's always such a great atmosphere at the event, not only with the hundreds of people taking part, but with the thousands who turn out to watch. A lot of people do it in memory of their loved ones who were cared for by the hospice, and all the sponsorship money raised from the event goes towards improving life for local people living with a progressive illness."

You can save £5 if you sign up with the early bird offer before 5pm on 31 October 2016, after this registration will be £10.

Be part of the festive fun and sign up now at www.stelizabethhospice.org.uk/dip St Elizabeth Hospice provides vital care and support to more than 2,000 patients and their families every year.

It costs millions of pounds a year to run the hospice and they rely on fundraising events, donations and the income generated from its shops to meet the majority of these costs.

HISTORY CORNER

THE POSTMAN COMETH

It was a lovely summer day in July 1840 at the cottage of an agricultural labourer in Riggle Street on the west side of Brandeston. Excitement – a letter brought by the Letter Carrier – the labouring poor rarely received a letter. Addressed to "Allen Cotton, Brandiston near Wickham, Suffolk, England", it had travelled from Aden by ship up the Red Sea to Suez, across to Alexandria and on another ship to Falmouth, thence via London to Wickham Market for delivery to Riggle Street. Who could be writing to Allen Cotton?

On the front – A Soldier's letter, From Private John King, 6th Company, European Regiment Infantry. Paid all the way with a manuscript "1" for a 1d and authorised by Captain Thomas Tapp, Captain in Charge. Still a mystery – then the letter.

"Dear father in my next my letter to you I will let you now whether I shall come home next board or whether I stop and put my time in for they shilling a day. I hope to god that you will be all alive when I do come home for there is nothing in this world would give so much pleasure be so good as to give my best love to Hall my brothers and sisters and to my friends

So no more from your Son John King Cotton

dean for their in my neset my letter ? you some home next board on whether i stop and put my time in for Then abilling a day I hope to god that you will be all alive tohen i do come home for there is nothing in this world that whands gave i much for leasure the an 200. as to give my hert to Hall methens and oisters and to eng prendo Lo no more from y Jon John Ring botton

(return address) the letter as follows

Overland To Private John King 6th Company 1st European Regiment Aden Arabia or Elsewhere"

Aver hand en Analoga An Plu autom

Although the address on the letter does not mention Riggle Street, the 1841 census was taken a few months later. It has good detail of the location of village residents, in this case listing "Hill Farm" (now West Hill [Farm]) separately, followed by "Riggle Street" for which there are eight households. From this it can be extrapolated that Allen Cotton, as head of the first household listed on Riggle Street, lived in the house at the end of the road nearest to West Hill, which is now called The Lodge. This is a Victorian structure so the house of Allen Cotton would have been a previous cottage on the same site. In 1841, the census shows that Allen Cotton is aged 65 and he is an agricultural labourer. He is living with his wife Ann aged 60, his son Samuel aged 27 and wife Emma aged 23 with their children, Charles aged 2 and William 5 months. In addition, there is a lodger, 15 year old Henry Taylor. Both Samuel and Henry are also agricultural labourers. The location of the Cotton family can be further confirmed by the last entry for Riggle Street. This is Samuel Gall, a farmer with family and two servants who would have been living in the more substantial dwelling on the corner of Riggle Street as it joins the main road, the west end of The Street. That was Grove Farm (now Grove House) which rented 40 acres from the Revett family at the Hall, the land mainly between Mill Lane and Riggle Street.

In the 1851 census, Allen and Ann are still living in Brandeston with son Samuel and grandson William, probably in Riggle Street although that census does not record the location. Allen and Samuel are still agricultural labourers, but that description for Allen has been struck through with the annotation "pauper". On the night of that census, Emma and Charles are not at home but Emma is recorded in the 1861 census with Samuel indicating that the whole of the family were together in 1851. Even though the current generation has concerns about "retirement age", it is plain that Allen Cotton never had that opportunity and the family struggled in the 1850s.

But, what about soldier John? Having shown concern for his family in 1840, no doubt he would have been pleased and impressed by his parents longevity. His regiment returned to Bombay later in 1841. Maybe he had the shorter life. If casualties from military action against the locals were not high, the mortality rate from disease in the Middle East and India was more considerable.

This is well evidenced from the paranoia of such disease, even from correspondence, as this letter has disinfection slits – that is razor cuts through the letter – so that it could be treated prior to entry into Britain. Typically, treatment was fumigation with "flowers of sulphur" (known to every farmer) or immersion in vinegar. This was done at an offshore location – in this case probably Malta which had been under British control since 1800. As John is not recorded in a Brandeston census, we may never know his story. Nor do we know why the Cotton family kept this letter for many years until it became a record of military and social history.
