New homes should be delivered through a locally led planning system. Communities should retain the right to shape the areas in which they live and to be able to demand health and educational infrastructure to support any new housing.

So, I am pleased to report that working alongside a number of other MPs, I have succeeded in delivering a rethink on the recent Government Planning White Paper. The White Paper would have set national targets for house building, made it much easier for developers to build houses and would have circumvented the local planning process. For me, this would have been wrong. It is essential that planning rules are set locally, not according to national targets, and I am pleased to have played my part in ensuring that this will continue to be the case.

Later this year, the Government will firmly set out new planning laws in its Planning Bill and I am confident that these laws will deliver a planning system that is locally led and fit for the future. With COP26 upon us, it is essential that due consideration is also given to the environment and I would also like to see a planning system that delivers high quality, low carbon design, helping to ensure cost effective, energy efficient homes, so that we continue to play our world-leading role in tackling climate change.

We are incredibly lucky to live in a rural county like Suffolk, largely protected from overdevelopment, but one of the biggest issues that people ask me about is the planning system. Whilst we all accept that we need to build more homes for local people and for our children and grandchildren, it is essential that any new homes are built in the right place and with the right infrastructure.

It is for these reasons that I helped to lead the successful campaign to stop the Ipswich Northern Bypass. Right from the start, it always seemed to me that the bypass was more about mass house building than about relieving any travel and congestion issues in Ipswich, and that is why so many people, like me, fought against it.

Any new housing should, in general, be on a small scale and incremental. The planning system needs to protect our precious countryside wherever possible and retain the fabric, character and heritage of our villages and towns. I have made it clear to Government ministers that any decisions around new homes and where they should be located, is a matter which must be decided locally, in full consultation with residents, parish and local councils.

From the Reverend Graham

November is here. The season of remembrance drawing together thanksgiving for saints, for all the faithful departed, and the sacrifice of many to preserve peace. It is a time when our thoughts go back to those who have come before us. We remember those who have influenced us, loved us, cared for us and who are no longer with us. When I was young my granddad used to take me for a walk, and we would always end up throwing a stone into the pond and watching the ripples grow outwards. In life we never know the effect of what we do or say. Several years ago, I attended an extraordinary funeral. The church was packed with people of all ages and the service was a tremendous celebration of the Christian faith. Although the person who had died was only 24, the ripples of his life had touched many people. He was one of God's special people who had a special way with him. Simple acts of kindness that showed his love of God. Whether it was taking flowers to someone who was sad or talking to people whom the world ignored. During the service people were asked to write their special memories on a piece of paper for inclusion in a book. A few weeks after the funeral I had the privilege of reading that book. It was incredibly moving as it showed just how many people had been affected by his short life.

We may never know what ripples from our lives affect others, but we can be thankful for all of those who by what they have said and done have made a difference to our life. Perhaps today you will find the time to think back through your life and remember someone who has made a difference to you for the better and give thanks for them.

November Services

All Souls Day 2nd November

This is a special day, when we have the opportunity to give thanks for loved ones who are no longer with us. This year the service will be at Easton at 6pm. It is a simple, reflective service. During the service, people are invited to bring a name card and place it by a candle as a simple act of remembrance.

Mid-week service of Holy Communion (BCP) at Hacheston 3 November at 10am.
Compline is said in Marlesford Church at 5pm every Wednesday.
Friday Prayers: 4pm Parham.

Remembrance Sunday 14th November

There will be services in many of our churches on Remembrance Sunday, offering the opportunity to give thanks for those who have given their lives that we might have peace and freedom.

Brandeston Church Christmas Raffle

Dear Villagers,

The Christmas Fair is an important fundraising event every year for All Saints' Church and the raffle is one of its main attractions. We are planning to hold a fair again this year, and following the excellent result last year, we have decided to have online raffle sales before the event. Tickets will be available on the day of the fair as well. Tickets costing £1 each will be available from Paul and Mary Baker. If you would like to buy some tickets, all you need to do is to send a donation to the church account with your surname as a reference. Donations need to be with us by the end of November please, and they should be sent to:

Sort code 40-21-30 Account number 61440799
Account name Brandeston PCC

If you don't do online-banking, you can send cash or a cheque by the end of November along with the slip at the foot of this letter to Tanglewood, Mill Lane, Brandeston IP13 7AP. Cheques should be made out to Brandeston PCC; alternatively, you are welcome to come to the Christmas Fair and buy tickets there.

Once we have received your donations, we will allocate the appropriate number of tickets and enter you into the draw which will take place at the Christmas fair on 11th December.

Campsea Ashe Christian Book Circle

A few of us from the village got together over a coffee recently and began to enthuse over a new book about Jesus's Sermon on the Mount - Following the Call: Living the Sermon on the Mount Together. It's a collection of writings from a wide spectrum of Christian traditions from Roman Catholic to Anabaptist, including Thomas Merton, Mother Teresa, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, C.S Lewis, N.T. Wright, Dr Martin Luther King Jr. and Eberhard Arnold. It's available from Amazon at £13.92 (you can read the first few chapters on-line for free) or download the whole book on Kindle for £4.79. The book is designed to be explored and discussed in small group settings so we decided to set one up! Whatever Christian tradition you favour, or indeed if you are not a Christian but would like to explore the teachings of Jesus with us, you would be most welcome. Similarly, you don't have to be a resident of Campsea Ashe, other villages are welcome to join the circle too! We plan to meet fortnightly, starting on Thursday November 11th 2021 at 7.30pm at The Station House in Campsea Ashe. Tea and coffee will be provided. We would love to see you there. What form the Book Circle takes over coming months and how frequently we meet depends on the wishes of those who attend so do come along and have your say. If you can't make that date but would like to be involved in the future, email peter.marett@hotmail.co.uk and we can keep you informed.

The Corrance Trust

The trust was set up in 1992 to support to support young people in the parishes of Parham and Hacheston. The objectives are to support religious education of children resident in the villages, and also wider education and training opportunities for young people. Although a modest trust, grants are made during the year. Applications can be made to the Secretary, Mrs S Paul at Parham Hall.

Over the next year we are looking for two new trustees, one from each of the villages. The trust is a modest foundation, with trustees meeting three times a year or urgent decision making is via email. We will also be looking for a new secretary who acts as clerk to the trustees. If you would be interested in any of these opportunities to serve your village then please contact the chair, Canon Graham Hedger (e mail: revgrahamhedger@outlook.com or by telephone 01473 737280)
